

5.0 – Screenshot of the application and output

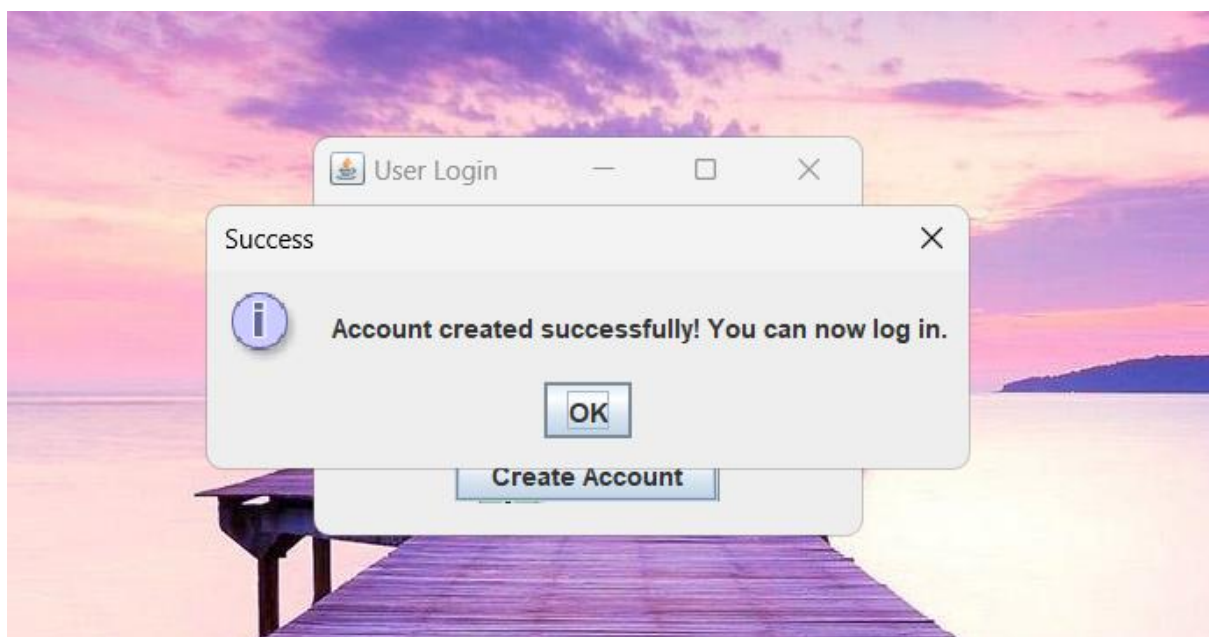

After running the system, the user login page will appear, prompting users to input a username and password to log in or create an account. In this case, we do not have an account yet, and so we will press 'create account'.

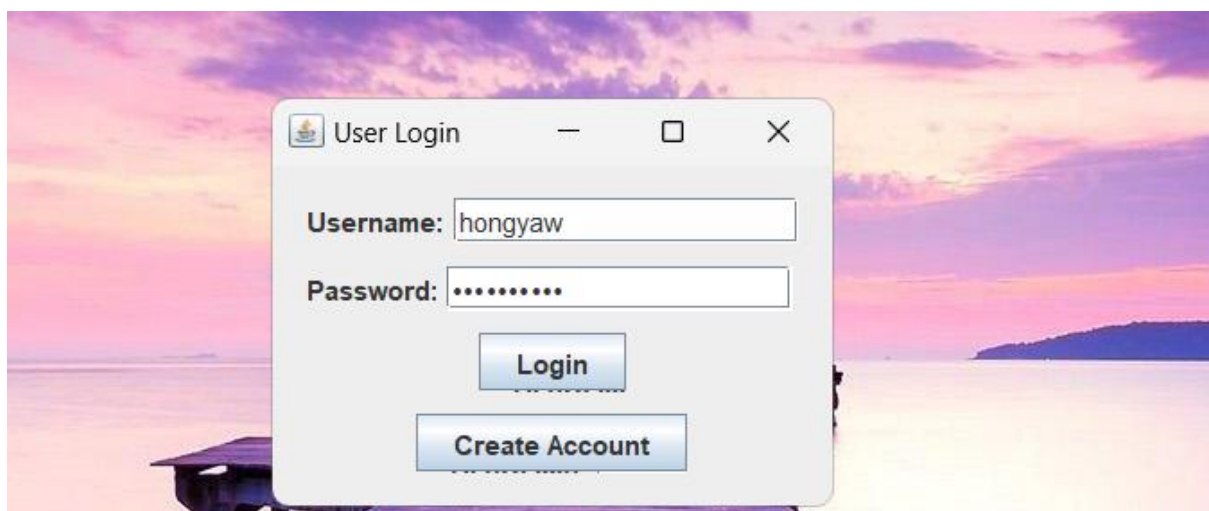

After pressing 'create account', the system will prompt users to input their username and press 'ok'.

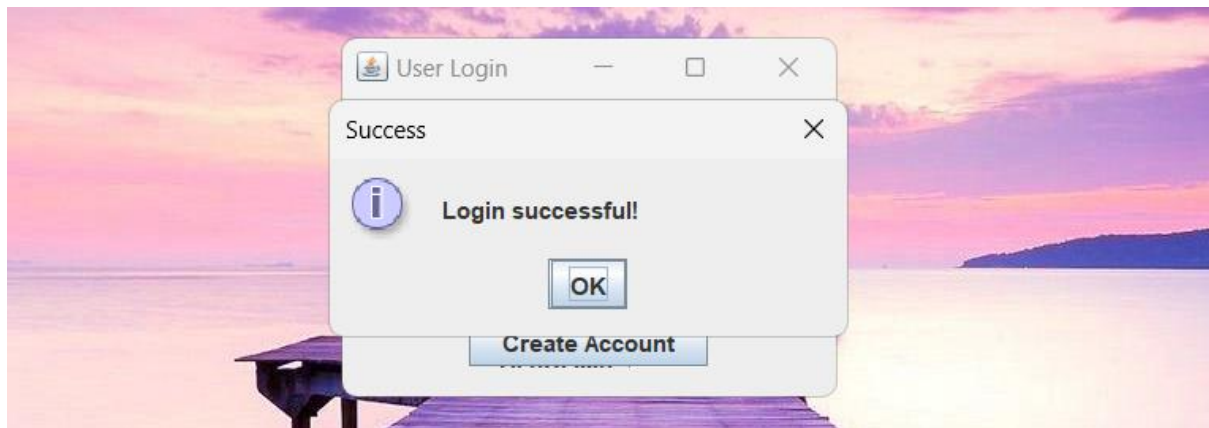

After pressing 'ok', the system will prompt users to input a new password and press ok

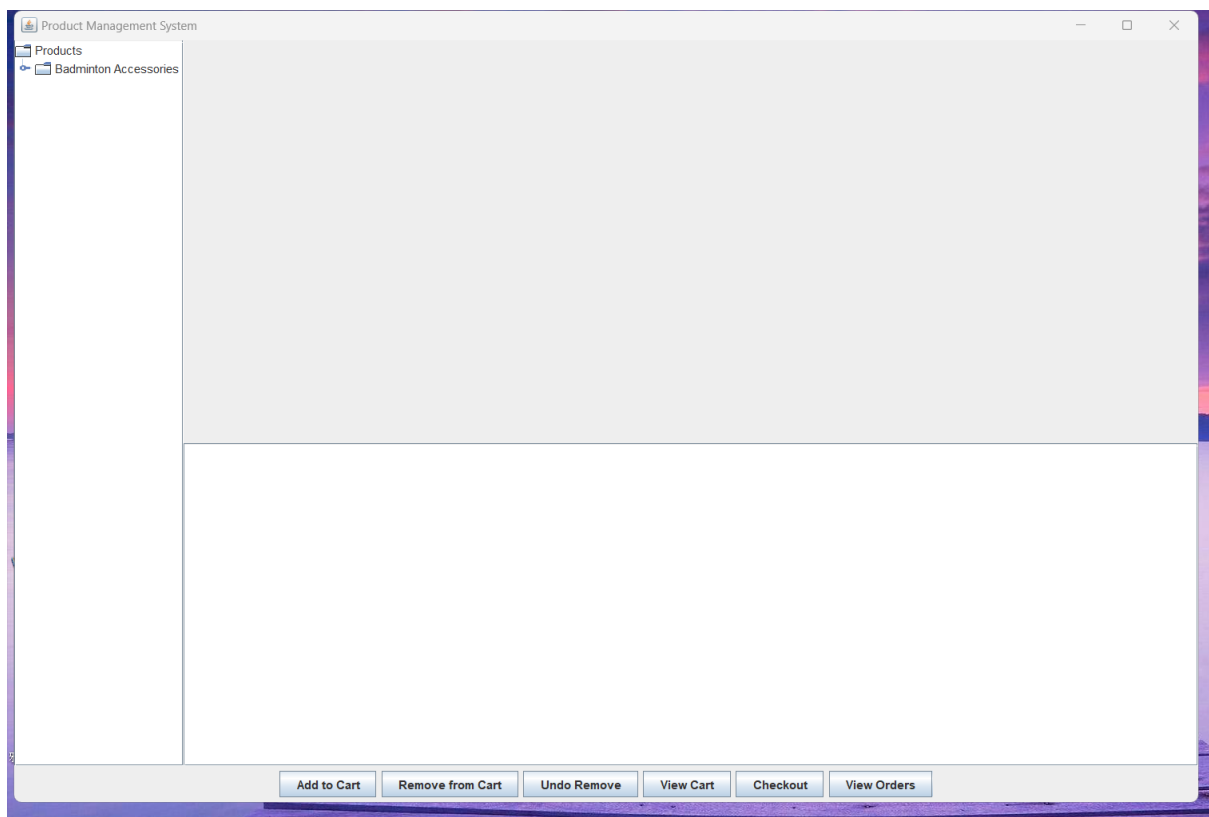

After that, it will display 'Account created successfully! You can now log in.' and press 'OK'

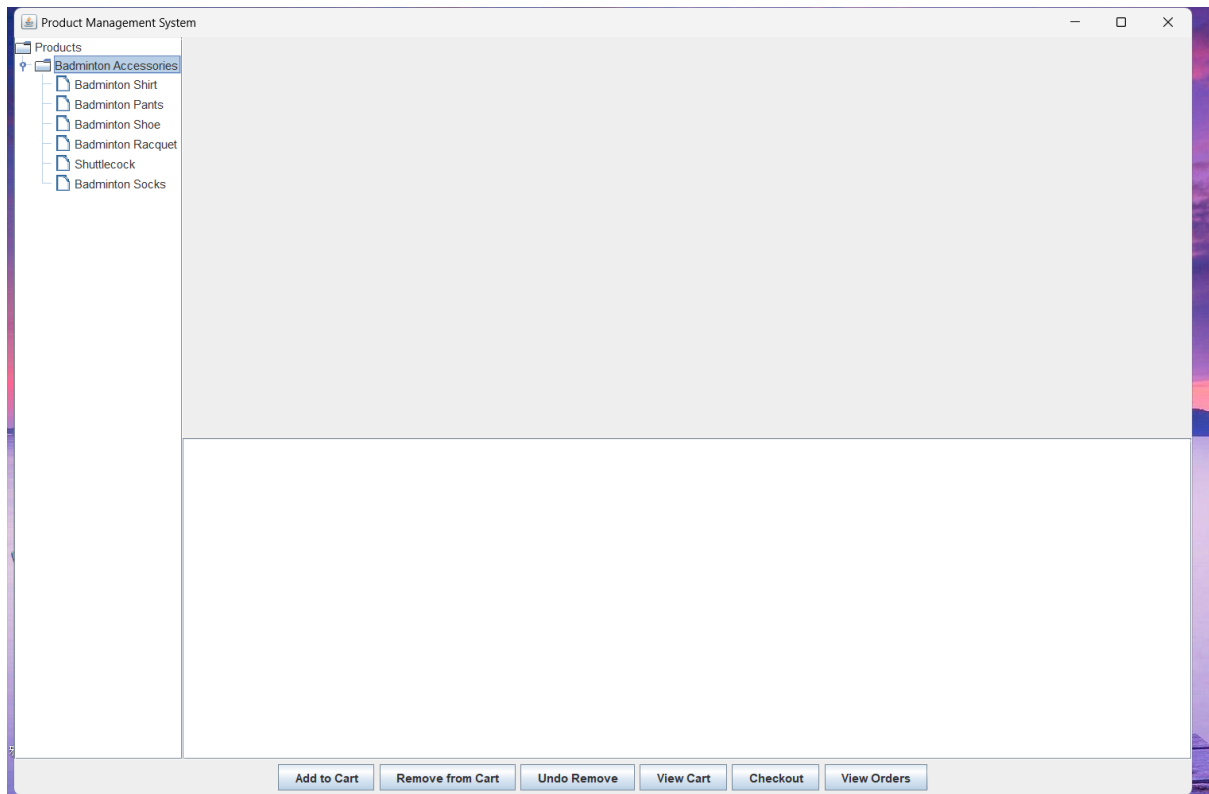

Now users can login with their username and password and press 'Login'

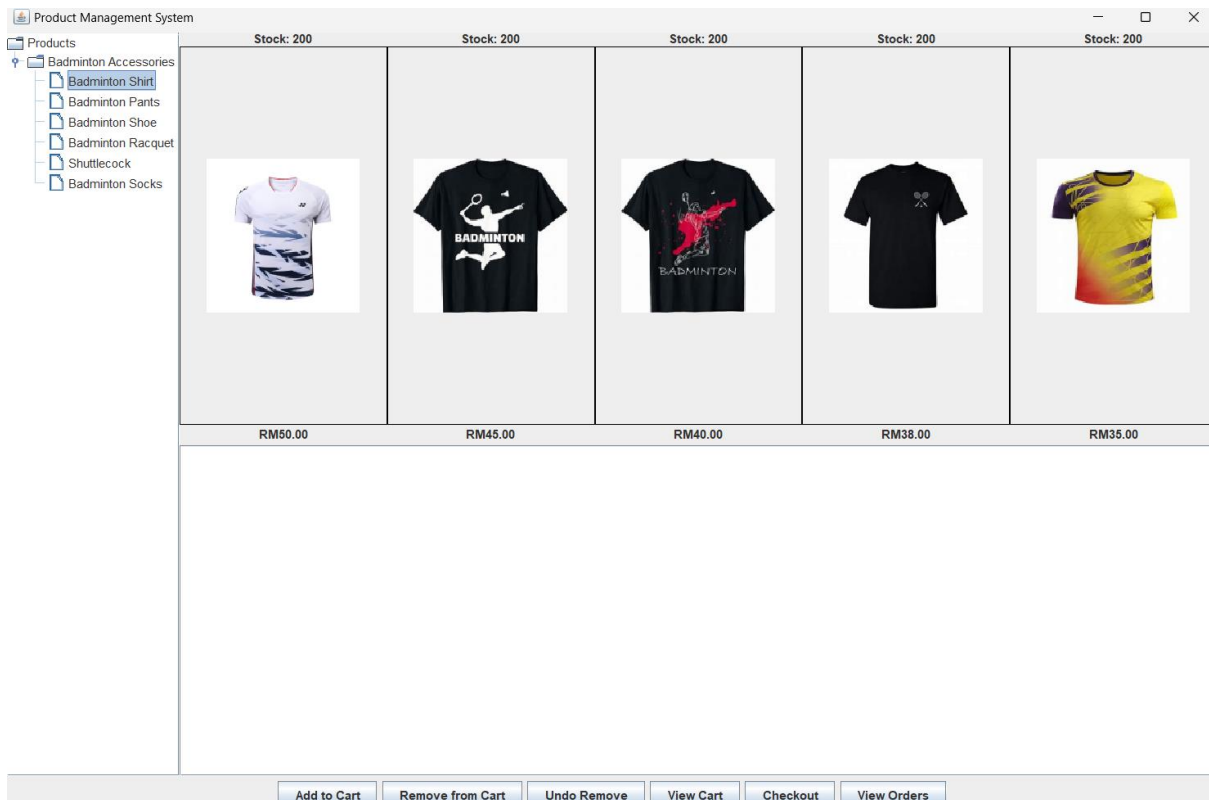

The system will display 'login successful!', and users will be navigated to the main GUI application.

In this page, users can press Badminton Accessories to view the product listing

There are several products, including badminton shirts, pants, shoes, racquets, shuttlecocks and socks. By clicking on a product, users can view the different variations of that specific item.
